Reviewers' comments:

Reviewer #1: I have reviewed the new version of the manuscript Modeling and Analysis of Data Corruption Attacks and Energy Consumption Effects on Edge Servers using Concurrent Stochastic Games. Next, I share my comments.

1. In the abstract authors mention: Numerical results show that compared to synchronous communication, asynchronous styles suffer from significantly larger infected buffers and higher energy consumption due to attacks. How much is larger? 60%? 80%? Please include numerical results in the abstract.
2. In section 7.2 please do not begin the section with graphics. Figures must be colocated after the text where there are cited.
3. In discussion section try to avoid subdivision since the text does not flow properly.
